

When searching for a certifier for your company's products, look for the following marks of a first-class certification body:

Checklist

Is it accredited by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI)?

Is it accredited by the Standards Council of Canada (SCC)?

Does it follow ISO/IEC Guide 17065 (undergoes extensive, external audits and is accredited by a third party)?

Does it perform product testing, certification and facility audits?

Is it accepted by the Association of State Drinking Water Administrators (ASDWA) as an approved certification agency?

The Water Quality Association's (WQA) Product Certification program meets all of these qualifications and more. To learn more about having products certified through WQA, visit www.wqa.org or call 630-505-0160.
